

Bruce A. Mauro

April 20, 1948 - April 4, 2024

Bruce Mauro, a man of unwavering strength, unyielding opinions, and boundless love, departed this world on April 4, 2024, leaving behind a legacy of laughter, music, and cherished memories. Born on April 20, 1948.

A true aficionado of the great outdoors, Bruce was an avid hunter whose passion for the wilderness knew no bounds. He found solace in the quietude of nature, forging lifelong bonds with fellow hunters and kindred spirits alike. Yet, it was in the roar of a powerful engine that Bruce found his greatest thrill, with a penchant for fast, classic cars. In earlier days, he could often be seen cruising the open road, with a smile plastered on his face.

But Bruce's love for life extended beyond the call of the wild and the rush of speed. He possessed an unparalleled passion for music, delighting in the melodies that filled the airwaves. With a cocktail in hand and a song in his heart, Bruce would regale friends and family alike, singing along word for word to countless tunes. His love of music was infectious, spreading joy and harmony wherever he went.

Bruce's devotion to his family was unmatched. He leaves behind his beloved daughter Allyson Barbaria and son David Mauro, along with their respective spouses, Lou and Casey. His four grandchildren, Louie, Marcello, Giorgio Barbaria, and Addison Mauro, were the apple of his eye, bringing him immeasurable pride and joy.

Born the only child to Frank and Mary Mauro (Spada), Bruce was raised with a strong sense of humor, an unwavering belief in himself, and a steadfast resolve to always speak his mind. His sharp wit, constant reassurance, and rock-solid opinions endeared him to all who knew him, leaving an indelible mark on their hearts.

Though Bruce may have bid farewell to this world, his spirit lives on in the laughter of his loved ones, the echoes of his favorite songs, and the memories shared. He will be deeply missed but fondly remembered as a man who lived life on his own terms, leaving a legacy of love, laughter, and unwavering strength.
