“ Cindy and Wendy;
I am so very sorry for your loss. The stories Cindy shared when we worked together were those of a family who are dearly loved. You are in my thoughts and prayers.

“ Despite the many years since I was last with Patricia, she will always be my "Grandma Harbinger." We were only related by marriage, but I honestly never felt like an outsider. As I sit here there are a flood of memories that come to mind as we gathered at the Main Street homestead to love and laugh. Christmas gatherings, card games, front porch sitting as the traffic went by - and I absolutely loved her spaghetti with the meatballs and sausage! I'm sorry I can't be there to offer my condolences and honor a woman whose life of kindness to others is the legacy she leaves behind.

I'm sorry Grandma that I fell out of touch. You are one of the great ones people are blessed to have known and loved. My life is better for having been in yours.
